Dry Ohio Goes Wet
Learning About Work

This Other Woman
—By Arthur Brisbane—

OHIO HAS GONE WET.
Governor George White, who joins the ranks of Democratic presidential candidates, winning by a wide margin, is very wet. David S. Ingalls, who won the Distinguished Service Medal after he brought down five enemy planes in the big war, was at the Republican gubernatorial primaries. He is almost as wet as Governor White.

Nearly all candidates endorsed by the Anti-Saloon League were badly beaten. Ohio, once perfectly dry, appears now to be perfectly wet, considerable change.

James Cox Brady, Jr., 27 years old, who is directing coal shovellers eight hours a day for the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York, owns a good deal of this company, and is a director in 50 other companies. He wants to know what it means to work for a living. His new job will tell him. He works 46 hours a week for 50 cents an hour, $23 a week.

Peña, Italian and others that do hard work wonder how he landed the job, and think him lucky. They would wonder more if they knew that the young man is worth $50,000,000.

The original Brady, Anthony N. advising this writer to buy a certain stock, said:

"I wanted to get young W. R. Hearst interested in that stock, and I waited more than two hours outside of his door to see him, but couldn't get in. I understand he doesn't deal in public securities. He'd have sold ten millions if he'd joined us."

The message that Mr. Brady got from W. R. Hearst, when busy starting his papers in New York, was:

"Tell him I'm much obliged, but I'm interested in newspapers."

Germany's government monopoly of alcoholic drinks appears to be working well. In the first three months of 1932 the consumption of distilled spirits was one-fourth the consumption of last year, and less than one-fourth the consumption of 1929-1930.

To make beer and light wines cheap, and whiskey dear, is the way to discourage whiskey and drunkenness. Our country, which forbids light wines and beer, not easily hidden, without interfering with whiskey and gin, encourages drunkenness and crime.

Those that are wet put on their jettish slippers reading "Swat the Dry" and dry as a bone. The slippers are made by the government might well stop it. Whether you believe that ardent drys are right or wrong, you know that they are sincere, have lost out the few that practice grafting and bribe-taking in enforcement jobs.

It is a pity that wet and dry should abuse each other, instead of talking things over and deciding what should be done, like sensible Americans.

A wise one in writing about matrimony says, "When men express disapproval of their wives' clothes they have ceased to love their wives."

The same thing is told better by Harry Hershfield in his "Harry Hershfield's Jewish Jokes," quoting it is understood, an associate by the ethnologist, Irvin Cobb:

"You look heavy dependant, Collier—what seems to be the matter?"

"My wife, she's terribly untidy. Her cooking is awful, she don't wash the dishes and the whole day she's flailing cards."

"Tell me, Volter—when did you meet this other woman?"

How far have the mighty fallen. The New York Central railroad, that has paid dividends without interruption for 70 years, postponed dividend payments six months ago and yesterday definitely abandoned them.

Stock that paid 8 per cent and sold at 250 recently, now pays nothing and is down to 35, a sample of what can happen when big wars are too big for statesmen sending money to Europe too stupidly generous, your financiers shipping your attention too stupidly gaudy, your citizens too stupidly obedient to their government.

Now, however, New York Central stockholders should remember that they own rights of way that are priceless, and in time will yield greater returns than the New York Central ever earned in its best days.

National cotton week begins next Monday. The plan is to help cotton growers by making the most important problem is to find new uses for cotton.

Mr. C. C. Collier, of Hum- phrey, of Atlanta, inform the writer that great progress has been made in the manufacture of "bond paper" of high grade, 100 per cent cotton, and of fine. This bond paper, beautiful in quality, is now made in Georgia at a low price.

4 HELD IN BIG ARREST PROBE

Confessions Said to Involve Others; 'Sold' Policewoman's Car Before They Stole It

In connection with an investigation of an auto theft ring which is said to have stolen 500 cars in Boston and other New England cities, police today applied for warrants against a Boston fireman and two others, for conspiracy to steal one machine.

They are Patrick J. Quinn, of Fifth rd., Roslindale, fireman of the Boston protective department; John A. Hawkins, also of Fifth rd., a broker's accountant; and John J. Griffin of Providence, R. I.

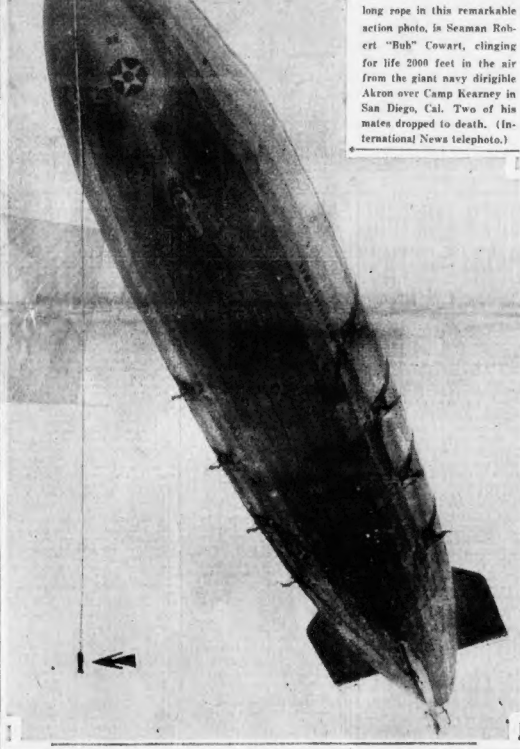

Hawkins admitted arranging to buy a car from Griffin, knowing it was stolen, the police say. He said he had put him by touch with Griffin.

FOURTH MAN INVOLVED
Confronted with Hawkins' story at headquarters, Jennings is alleged to have admitted knowing this car was a "hot" or stolen, said.

Also held in the investigation is William F. Dodson, 30, who escaped from Norfolk State Prison colony in 1925, and who was arrested in Providence yesterday. He will be Continued on Page 3, Column 2

CLINGING FOR LIFE 2000 FEET ALOFT

This tiny speck, dangling like a plummet at the end of the long rope in this remarkable action photo, is Seaman Robert "Bub" Cowart, clinging for life 2000 feet in the air from the giant navy dirigible Akron over Camp Kearney in San Diego, Cal. Two of his mates dropped to death. (International News telephoto.)

Told Hang on; Nervy Akron Survivor Did

Camp Kearney, San Diego, Cal., May 12 (INS)—"I had orders to hold on. So I held on."

His bravely matching his nonchalant, Robert "Bub" Cowart, 19, "nerviest" man in the United States Navy, so disposed today of his feat of hanging for an hour and a half in midair like a plummet on the end of a three-inch anchor rope dangling from the dirigible Akron.

"Bub," a Tulsa, Okla., farm-lad, but eight weeks a sailor, was one of four men carried aloft when the Akron lunged upward during an attempt to moor her yesterday.

Two of the four fell to their deaths. Another received a broken arm.

For an hour and 35 minutes Cowart hung on the brink of eternity, yawning pendulums as ground currents tossed beneath the 735-foot steel titan of the air.

Rescued at last through a hero's Treasury balance, $30,000, U. S. Customs receipts, $179,235.

$60,000 FIRE IN CONCORD MANSION

Beautiful Home of G. Mott Shaw, Filled With Art Treasures, Is Swept by Flames

Fire starting from an undetermined cause swept the beautiful G. Mott Shaw mansion, at Nine Ace Corners, West Concord, today, causing a loss estimated at $60,000.

The fire is believed to have started on the second floor of the long two-story brick and wooden mansion.

It was burning for some time before being discovered by a maid. When the first pieces of fire apparatus reached the scene the flames had gone to the state roof, and unable to break through, smoldered beneath the roof.

The fire started in the show places in the exclusive West Concord section, was built about five years ago. Thousands of dollars worth of art, pictures and tapestries, together with valuable furniture and other furnishings, were collected in the flames.

Twenty minutes after discovery of the fire it was apparent the mansion was doomed and firemen from Concord and Sudbury concentrated their efforts to prevent its spread to the Fred E. Lowell mansion nearby and also to five other houses and valuable woodlands on the Shaw estate.

When the roof of the building collapsed a great shower of sparks were carried through the air by a stiff northeast wind and numerous grass fires were started.

100 Battle 2 Forest Fires on Cape Cod

Barnstable, May 12 (INS)—Two forest fires were sweeping wooded sections of Cape Cod this afternoon, raising out of control the fire wardens and 100 volunteers and firemen.

The first fire started on the outskirts of this town shortly after noon, and began cutting a swath on the south side of the Cape Cod Canal through the State forest reservation at Bourne. A stiff northeast wind hampered the fire-fighters.

An hour after the first fire, a second was reported in Mashpee Neck, raging through a thickly wooded section, in which are numerous valuable trees.

Famed Horse That Aided 4,000 Dies

New York, May 12 (INS)—An (AP)—Old Doc Dobbin, the aged horse which supplied diphtheria serum for inoculation of more than 4,000 children, is dead.

For many years the horse was in the service of a laboratory here, where Dr. Henry Henshaw, of Cambridge, gave the horse a birthday party.

CONGRESS OVER AND PARTY LEADERS ON FOR RELIEF PLAN

Back to the Nineties

Senators Watson, Dawes and Robinson, Meyer and Mills Take Part in Conference

Washington, May 12 (AP)—A compromise federal relief program took shape today at conferences revolving about the White House and between the Reconstruction Corporation and participants in by Republican and Democratic leaders.

As the discussions concluded, President Hoover in a statement reveals that he is to combine, simplify and put into concrete form various relief proposals. First of all, however, is placed a balancing of the budget.

Senators Watson and Robinson, Republican and Democratic leaders respectively, were visitors at the White House. Others there during the morning were President Dawes of the Reconstruction Corporation, Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Secretary Mills.

AGREEMENT IN PROSPECT
The President went over the situation separately with Watson at breakfast and later with Robinson.

Declining to discuss details, Watson stated later a tentative agreement was in prospect. Robinson yesterday proposed a two-billion dollar bond issue for federal construction and $500,000,000 for assistance to the unemployed. He discussed this with the President.

There is every indication the President desires to work the problem out through the Reconstruction Corporation. A non-partisan relief program is expected to pay the wages of the unemployed in a day or two for the same Prosperity Loans.

CONFERENCES
Speaker Garner and Republican House leaders also were in the White House for the consultations. It is understood Hoover's statement said.

At a conference this morning, the President and Senator Robinson discussed the plan of the Reconstruction Corporation. The plan is to stimulate enlarged employment.

Methods were considered of combining, simplifying and putting into concrete form the different proposals so as to secure the non-partisan program. The plan is to stimulate enlarged employment.

"The President expressed his appreciation of Senator Robinson's action in opening the way for united action and his confidence that a solution will be found," he said.

"It was agreed that the prerequisite of any plan is balance of the budget."

Monthly Rate on Small Loans Cut
The legislative committee on banks and banking today reported a bill reducing the monthly interest rate on small loans from 2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The bill further provides that in all advertisements a complete schedule of rates for all loans, interest and other charges must be stated.

Shippers Protest Power Extension
New York, May 12 (AP)—A group of Atlantic coast shippers protested today to United States Senator Lloyd C. Bicknell, asking him to extend regulatory authority of the Shipping Board over interstate water commerce.

TODAY
World peace that has lasted for four months.

That is too much optimism, Japan, retiring from Shanghai, has sent nearly 30,000 fresh troops into Manchuria, is like an active tiger letting go a cow's hind leg, the actual front leg. The wise Japanese, however, think that Japan can do in Manchuria, with Russia growing restless, and sending troops to the border.

The Rev. Alexis Mallon, a Jesuit archbishop, of the Pontifical Biblical Institute of Rome, has discovered "actual proof" of the Biblical story of the destruction by fire and brimstone of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Scavenging on the north shore of the Dead Sea in Palestine, Fr. Mallon found that Sodom and Gomorrah existed at the same time, were both destroyed by fire, never rebuilt.

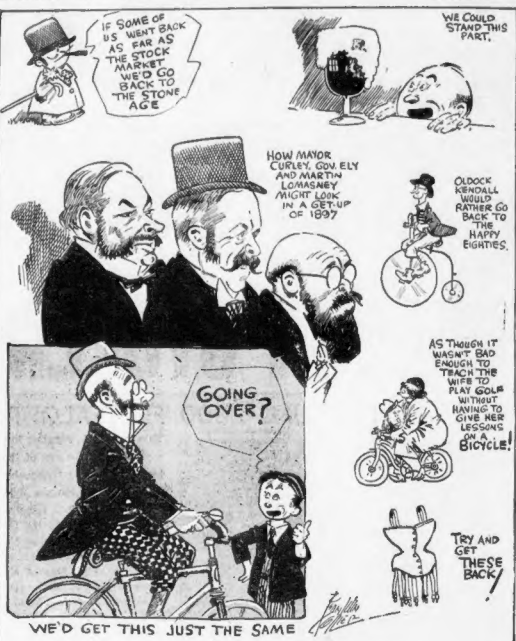

The confederations were very violent.

He observed on the plain below the city an interesting rock formation about five feet high that might have been the wife of Lot, turned into salt.

Earlier clerics investigating have also reported the discovery of the wife, supposing it was a woman.

15 Pledges Fined; 11 More Warned
Punish cash peddlars, arrested on Sunday, Kingston Police said today in municipal court for unlawful use of the streets for their sales.

Others were warned that another offense would mean a fine.

BIRTH CONTROL BILL TIE OPENS

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Senator Robinson's bill to open the birth-control debate, today opened the debate on a bill prohibiting dissemination of such information.

Appearing before a Senate Judiciary sub-committee, he urged approval of the bill by Senator Hatfield (R), West Virginia, to exempt physicians, hospitals, licensed clinics and others in the medical fraternity from existing laws.

The bill, he said, "directly affects the health, happiness and future development of 35,000,000 women and the lives of 45,000,000 children."

The bill does not compel anyone to obtain knowledge, he said, "but simply gives rights to physicians to obtain up-to-date information and allows them to advise it when needed."

Edward F. McCready, of the American Federation of Labor, presented a statement saying William Green, president of the union, "does not feel we can support this bill, nor do we believe we will be able to support any bill that leaders of the church denounce as conducive to bad morals and that does not receive the support of the medical profession of our country."

GOLDBERG HELD FOR FIRE FRAUD
Charged with a fire insurance fraud of $10,000, Charles Goldberg, Charles A. antique dealer, was held in bonds of $5000 today in municipal court.

Goldberg was arrested by Inspector Tros on complaint of the Hon. C. Paige Co.

The insurance company charged Goldberg collected on policies after a fire in his shop and that officials of a new York antique concern later charged the destroyed goods were owned by them.

Irish Bachelors Face Heavy Increase in Income Taxes

Dublin, Irish Free State, May 12 (AP)—Irish bachelors were threatened today with grievously increased income taxes.

Under a new proposed income tax bill introduced in the Dail, a bachelor with an income of $1500 would pay nearly 10% tax, while the good fortune of having an income of $2000 would result in a tax of about 15%.

The bill also calls for taxes on dancing, outdoor sports and horse and dog racing, as well as a 20 per cent levy on the Irish Hospital's share in sweetshops, groceries, estimated at $2,500,000.

charged with violation of the motor theft law, according to police. Taken to headquarters for investigation on Appleton st., South End. Jennings was brought face to face with Hawkins, who was instructed by the investigating officers, Inspector Timothy Sheehan, John F. McCarthy and Thomas F. McLaughlin, to repeat his admission.

"You are the one who arranged the meeting between me and Griffin," said Hawkins, to Jennings. "I met him and he told me about the car. You said you had a good idea where the car came from. You said it was a 'hot' car."

POLICE CAR STOLEN
Jennings then admitted knowing it was a "hot" car, the police said.

The machine belonged to Miss MacDowell, a Providence policewoman. Police say that another boy spotted it for theft and took down his engine numbers. There was agreed to pay $200 for the machine.

Hawkins had the car registered in Massachusetts. The rest of the plan was for him to send the car, which could then be driven here and delivered without danger of interference.

The insurance company charged Goldberg collected on policies after a fire in his shop and that officials of a new York antique concern later charged the destroyed goods were owned by them.

TO RECOVER IN CASES
Jennings told police he had no knowledge of any other cars. He said he had known Griffin for 20 years.

Inspector Sheehan expects to recover 10 cars shortly, in addition to the one stolen from Griffin.

The protective department, with which Jennings is connected, is not part of the Boston fire department but is an organization maintained by insurance companies to assist in fighting fires.

Industry Expert Sees Business Revived by Prosperity Loan
By JOHN T. LAMBERT

What this country needs is a Five Billion Dollar Prosperity Bond Issue to put men to work and revive business.

Such is the well-considered opinion of Edwin S. Smith, Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Mr. Smith is the administrator of the labor laws affecting the industries and workers throughout Massachusetts.

He is recognized by financiers, industrialists and employed alike as an authority on economics.

His views on unemployment insurance and the other alleviations of distress have been presented to the Boston committee and the government officials at Washington.

Mr. Smith, like every thinking public official and employer, believes in facing the facts.

And here are facts that call for action—not panic, but definite action by the national government.

There is no need of panic as yet, because conditions can be remedied immediately by the adoption by Congress of the Five Billion Dollar Prosperity Loan plan.

THE FACTS
The facts, as they affect this great State, are these:

The following estimates of unemployment in Massachusetts were prepared by the Boston Evening American by agencies in a position to know the facts.

They are believed to be accurate. Number of persons available for employment in Massachusetts—1,800,000.

Noted Specialist Killed in Crash
Dr. R. Bishop Canfield, 58, widely known specialist in diseases of the ear, nose and throat, was killed Monday morning when his automobile crashed into a tree between here and Taunton this morning.

Husing, Announcer, Loses His Appendix
New York, May 12 (AP)—Court Husing, radio sports announcer, underwent an operation for appendicitis today. His condition was reported as satisfactory.

MILK CONTROL BILL SPEEDS UP HOUSE

Measure is Engrossed Despite Charges in Bitter Debate; See Prices Boosted

The bill to establish a state board of regulation over the production, distribution and sale of milk was passed to the engrossment stage by the House today, 102-36, after prolonged debate.

It was first amended, on motion of Rep. Wilfred F. Forward of Granby, to make mandatory the state's acceptance of reports of community health inspectors.

Rep. Louis R. Sullivan of Boston predicted that the price of milk would increase within two months after the bill becomes law. He said it would add $15,000 expenses for milk inspection on Boston, which now pays $53,000 for the same work. Rep. Elmer L. McLaughlin of Adams termed the bill a "gesture to feed the farmers."

The bill was attacked Tuesday by Dr. Francis M. Mahoney, Boston health commissioner, who charged there was a "milk racket" under the control of Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, head of the state department of agriculture, who will be one of three members of the board established by the bill.

Dr. Mahoney charged that Dr. Gilbert is employed by members of the New England Dairy Producers Association under a fee system of $100,000 a year for the past eight years, a fact under the provisions of the bill he will be called upon to police very interests which employ him.

PETITION

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

We, the undersigned citizens, believing that a Prosperity Loan bond issue of $5,000,000,000 for needed public works is the only economical, sound and certain relief for the unemployment problem, the only sure and quick way to relieve the business depression, and avoid greater suffering throughout the nation in this crisis, do hereby petition the Congress to enact the necessary legislation immediately.

BOSTON THE SLAVE'S MOTHER DEMANDS $250,000 IN SUIT

In Kreuger Case

Miss Hilda Aberg, housekeeper in the elaborate New York apartment of Ivar Kreuger, testified at investigation of his affairs that she knew nothing of his business.

Kreuger Suicide Was Suppressed 8 Hours

LEE, HIGGINSON & CO. PARTNER SO TESTIFIES

New York, May 12 (INS)—Out of the sumptuous penthouse apartment of the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king who committed suicide when his billions tottered, an enigmatic woman came—for a day.

She is Miss Hilda Aberg, mysterious housekeeper of the New York rooftop dwelling where Kreuger is reported to have given elaborate parties dedicated to wine, women and song, she emerged to give prim testimony at an investigation into the affairs of the International Match Corp. Then she disappeared behind the inverted hair of the Park ave. apartment house.

About herself she said nothing, save that she had been hired for Kreuger in Stockholm from 1917 to 1921, had been a cashier in a New York tax room, and was still functioning as the housekeeper of the penthouse whose owner is dead.

NEWS HIDDEN'S HOURS

She said her boss never overstepped it, according to her testimony at the bankruptcy hearing, on today.

"It was not my duty to listen; I was simply a domestic employee. I knew nothing of Mr. Kreuger's business affairs," she said.

Other revelations of the day included the identification of the "Match King" as Ivar Kreuger, and the fact that Lee, Higginson & Co., Inc., of New York, was the firm which had been in charge of Kreuger's affairs.

Donald Durant, partner in Lee, Higginson & Co., testified that while aware of the suicide was held eight hours, his firm did not take advantage of this to unload any of its holdings in Kreuger's securities.

He said the news was withheld to give the Paris authorities opportunity to make the announcement. Durant was in Paris at the time the cable news was received, which still holds $10,000,000.

PROFIT OF $6,385,000

His company realized $10,000,000 in this country for the International Match Company and made a profit of $6,385,000.

He said his firm never was informed fully as to just what match concerns were to be made by Kreuger or what percentage of the profits was to be allocated to International. He said his company, Kreuger told him they were "particularly secret" matters.

In a visit last February to Kreuger's apartment at 791 Park ave., Durant said he found Kreuger "on the verge of hysterics and 'hard to talk to'." His state across over the threat of the International Match Company, Kreuger told him to withdraw from purchase of Kreuger's Ericsson Telephone Company, in Sweden, after a down payment of $11,000,000.

DURANT CALLS DOCTOR

Kreuger did not talk of suicide, but was so ill at ease that Durant called for a physician.

On a further visit to the apartment a few days later, Durant said Kreuger revealed he was hard-pressed to meet a $4,000,000 note. Durant said Kreuger did not at any time say he was ruined.

Kreuger, he accompanied Kreuger to Paris in March. He was waiting in a hotel for Kreuger to join him in a conference with other financiers on the Ericsson telephone situation.

The members of the group were waiting for Kreuger to arrive when Kristian L. Lohr, a director in International, entered and announced.

MOSCOW SEEN IN MINE ROW

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Senator Logan (D., Ky.), today charged indirectly before a Senate committee that funds for coal groups to visit the Kentucky coal fields came from "Communist headquarters in Moscow."

Logan's declaration came in questioning Allan Taub, New York attorney who appeared on the Cutting-Coutner resolution for a senatorial inquiry.

The Kentucky asked who paid the cost of eastern group investigation. Taub replied funds came from contributions of "hard earned funds of workers, sympathizers and students."

"Which of these is connected directly with communistic headquarters at Moscow?" Logan asked.

Taub replied such connection would be "news in m."

Mother of the Man Gave Them $400 to Go and $300 a Week While There, It Is Charged

New York, May 12—Strange stories of a mother who packed her son and a dance hall girl off to Bermuda with a big expense fund, but without benefit of clergy, were told a jury today in a "love slavery" trial.

The central figure in the case is Mona O'Connor, pale-faced girl from Boston, whose mother, Mrs. Gertrude O'Connor, charges her daughter was the "love slave" of Otto Heyworth, 31, twice married.

BEING FOR $250,000

Mrs. O'Connor is suing Otto's mother, Mrs. Selma C. Young, for $250,000.

Atty. Arthur F. Driscoll told Superior Court Justice McFadden that Otto met Mona in a dance hall, spent much of his time there, sought her in drink and left her in an apartment two days until her mother took her home.

On a Christmas Eve, Driscoll said, Otto and Mona were in the Pennsylvania Hotel by Otto's mother, Mrs. Selma C. Young, of Illinois, and the mother "persuaded her son to take the girl to Bermuda with him."

HAD $300 A WEEK

"He was given $300 to start with," Driscoll said, "and received $300 a week while in Bermuda, where he and the girl lived."

Atty. Henry Libart, representing the mother, said Otto was "seduced" and "persuaded" by Mona, who was "a woman of loose morals and without any special training."

He said Otto was "a man of good character and of high intelligence."

Atty. Frederic Coulter, Jr., representing Mrs. Young, pictured Otto as a "wayward boy" who when his mother had no control over him, he was "a man of good character and of high intelligence."

WALSH BATTLES TARIFF TAXES

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Inclusion of "tariff duties on oil, coal, copper and lumber masquerading as excise taxes" in the tax bill was called "utterly indefensible" in a minority report made public today by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts.

The report, representing the views of members of the finance committee who differed from the group that filed the majority report yesterday, was signed by five Democratic members: Walsh, Harrison (Miss.), George (Ga.), Connally (Cal.) and Hull (Tenn.).

The majority report yesterday defended the tax bill and urged its passage.

"We believe that it is unsound in principle and dangerous in practice to attempt to make the present revenue of our domestic tax laws the vehicle for tariff duties," the report said.

"Furthermore, the prospective revenue yield of these proposed tariff taxes is negligible," it added.

TELS OF 'SPOT' THREATEN WIFE'S FRIEND

Three wives and one husband sought to drop their spouses today in Middlesex probate court, with two of the wives resulting, the case of the third being taken under advisement and that of the lone husband unfinished.

George M. Anderson of Magnolia, Cambridge, a singer and entertainer, married her on Sept. 25, 1927—and from then on had trouble keeping tabs on her, he testified. He was particularly started one night, he said, when she arrived home late with two black eyes and declared she had received them in an accident.

She had two friends, too, according to Anderson, and one, named Benny, had the temerity to call up the husband and say he was going to be put on the spot by none but Benny himself. This Anderson said, was right after Mrs. Anderson had threatened to leave Benny, the husband.

FAR FROM A WHISPER

Mrs. Anderson told her husband that if he didn't like her staying out nights he could leave, he testified, and soon after that she learned that a man named Harry was visiting Anderson's car. In fact, Harry was the driver on the night when Mrs. Anderson was injured in an automobile accident and the husband was called to the hospital.

During the last summer, Anderson testified, his wife was not home more than a week and he was called to take care of her when she was in the hospital.

"Some nights," said Anderson, "when she would get home, she'd make a racket and she'd tell me when she started to holler, she didn't whisper."

Mrs. Margaret F. Carbone of Broadway, Cambridge, said she was a nurse and she had been hand-giving her a blackeye on their wedding night, April 11, 1927. She was dealing with a woman who, once she was married, had been once and a while with a man and she was threatened to kill her.

"He was very jealous," she declared.

Her case was taken under advisement.

AXE AND KNIVES

Cruselly was charged by Mrs. Michael Maguire, a resident of J. Maguire, both of Framingham, and she was given her dressing after being married since August, 1927. He threw knives at her, she testified, and threatened her with an axe and a razor, compelling her to see the house in her nightgown.

Mrs. Margaret E. Tarbox of Somerville and she were married in a cabaret spring, was granted a divorce from Lawrence M. Tarbox of Cambridge on the grounds of cruelty and abusive treatment.

She testified, among other things, that he beat her after she had returned from a visit to a Veterans Foreign Wars auxiliary convention in Haverhill, which he did not wish her to go.

Nightclub Queen Escapes Jail Term

London, May 12 (U.S.)—An "O" promise me" said the judge and Mrs. Kate Meyrick, promoter of the "nightclub racket," today terminated a "gentleman's agreement" to let the nightclub racket, today escaped from jail officials, the embarrassment of again harboring an ex-convict in her home.

But for all that, London's "nightclub racket" was fined $200 and assessed $300 in court costs. Mrs. Meyrick was arraigned for aiding and abetting.

Chelsea Man Resents Added Costs, Claims He Was Attacked by Pair

This is the twelfth in a series of articles exposing the tax collection racket, a form of legalized extortion, which is fattening the pockets of constables and victimizing reputable citizens of Massachusetts.

Strong-arm tactics and handcuffs have been added to exorbitant fees in the tax collection racket, according to disclosures today.

Two World War veterans were victims.

Sylvester Smaragen, 40, of 65 Summer st., Chelsea, claims to have been so badly beaten by George F. Roberts, a Chelsea constable, and his "helper," Frank Forti, that he was hospitalized for several days. Roberts was in court before on a charge of carrying a revolver without a permit, but was found not guilty.

The other case is that of Edmund Merchant, World War veteran and father of two children, who lives at 21 Montrose st., Everett.

BRUTAL TREATMENT

Merchant says Constable James Bruce beat him up on the sidewalk in front of his home, and then he was taken to the hospital.

On the night of May 10, 1931, he says, he was taken to the hospital. He says he was taken to the hospital.

Sylvester Smaragen, Chelsea war veteran, caused him to tumble down flight of stairs, as indicated by arrow. The constable and his helper were charged with assault and battery on Smaragen.

Involved in the "accident" fell Smaragen, giving conflicting testimony. He says Roberts and Forti started punching him. When he appeared in court for assault, Roberts was charged with assault and battery on Smaragen.

VET ARRESTED ILLEGALLY FOR TAXES

The warrant upon which Sylvester Smaragen, 40, of Chelsea, veteran of the World War, was arrested and jailed today for non-payment of a poll and estate tax, was declared illegal today by Judge J. J. Sullivan in Chelsea district court.

Judge Sullivan inspected the warrant when George F. Roberts, Chelsea constable, and his "helper," Frank Forti, were arraigned charged with assault and battery on Smaragen.

He ruled it illegal because Roberts himself had signed it and not the constable, a continuance was granted. Bail remained at $200 for each defendant.

Smaragen charges the constable and his helper, both men after demanding $25 taxes, plus costs and a continuance to pay for release him from jail where he appears. He was incarcerated in an illegal warrant.

La Guardia Calls Cord 'Contemptible'

Washington, May 12 (AP)—A friendly argument between Representative LaGuardia and Chairman Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee today resumed from the committee room a statement that J. L. Costello, president of the Century Line, was "contemptible."

LaGuardia used the word in asking the committee to appoint a subcommittee to investigate the case, which would lead to the fact of the Century Line's dispute with the airline operators and pilots.

ENVOY IN TOUCH WITH INDY KIDNAPERS

Norfolk, Va., May 12 (INS)—Tidewater Virginia, which has played an important part in the nationwide hunt for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, seemed out of the picture today, except in so far as the activity of one of her citizens, John Hughes Curtis, working off Long Island, N. Y., was concerned.

Curtis, chief of the group here seeking the baby, left Norfolk on Saturday, and since then has been seeking contact with the purported kidnapers.

Curtis has telephoned friends here once to assure them he is safe, and at that time revealed he was seeking to contact the purported kidnapers off Long Island. He has apparently managed to resume his contact with the men with whom he has been dickering for the baby since March 3.

CROWLEY GAVE KIDNAP TIP

The name of a man suspected to have kidnaped the Lindbergh baby, or to have perpetrated the $20,000 ransom double-cross, was given to New Jersey state authorities two weeks ago by Police Supt. Crowley, Rpt. Crowley admitted this today in commenting upon a report, traced to New York, which said he had supplied a tip through which the only contact yet made with the actual kidnapers was accomplished by negotiators.

"I don't know whether the information proved to be that valuable or not," Crowley said. "As a matter of fact, I don't know what result, if any, was obtained from information I forwarded Col. Schwarzkopf of the New Jersey state police about two weeks ago."

"A friend who pledged me to keep his name an absolute secret gave me the name of a man who is supposed either to have done the kidnaping or to have collected the ransom money."

"I will not tell anyone who gave me the information or exactly what it was."

BLAST WRECKS OLD LANDMARK

Lowell, May 12—An explosion in an unattended still set fire to and destroyed the old Knight House, a landmark on Westford rd., Tyngsboro, today, causing a loss estimated at $400.

The roar of the explosion could be heard for several blocks and when fire apparatus arrived the building was in flames from cellar to roof.

The building, a two-and-a-half-story wooden structure, was erected in 1723 and during the Revolutionary days served as a tavern.

It was not until the fire was extinguished and the twisted parts of the still, estimated by officials to be of 250 gallons capacity, were found in the ruins.

Federal agents are conducting a probe.

Judge's Son Accused in Auto Complaint

Hazen C. Sturtevant, son of Judge Malcolm E. Sturtevant of Somerville District Court, was named today in a complaint sworn out by Police Chief Sumner Viles of Weston, charging the youth with parking without lights on Highland st., Weston, May 9.

Young Sturtevant, who lives on Warren ave., Somerville, is ordered to appear in Waltham District Court for a hearing May 19.

4 Dead, 4 Missing in German Shipwreck

Oporto, Portugal, May 12 (AP)—Four men were dead, four missing and believed drowned and four injured today as a result of the capsizing of two lifeboats in a furious sea in an attempt to rescue the crew of the German steamer Gaus, which ran aground near here in a storm.

Two passengers on the Gaus and part of the crew and cargo were safely removed.

Brokers Subpoenaed in the Senate Probe

Washington, May 12 (AP)—A large number of subpoenas have been issued by the senate banking committee to compel the appearance tomorrow of brokers who have refused to let the committee examine their records in the "bear" probe.

The names of the brokers were not made public.

PARENTS PASS 4 OUT IN FIRE

Four children were passed through a window from the mother to the father today and saved during a fire in the bungalow home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Akoury, 34 Curtis st., Quincy Point.

Jeannette Akoury, two, who was sleeping in a room with Helen, four, and the mother, awoke crying, and when the mother awakened, she found the room filled with smoke.

The father, occupying an adjoining room with the two boys, Neil, 6, and James, 4, found the kitchen burning, shutting off escape by the door.

Akoury locked the door into the kitchen, escaped from the window and sounded a fire alarm.

Then he ran back to the bungalow, where his wife passed him in the hallway, and he helped her out of the window and the children followed.

The fire, believed to have started from an overheated stove, caused $1500 damage.

World Unity Urged to Avert Disaster

London, May 12 (AP)—Lord D'Abernon, head of the British trade mission to Argentina last year, told the Anglo-German club today that only joint international action could prevent even greater economic disasters to the world.

"Unless some measure of agreement is reached," he said, "and unless that agreement leads to stabilization of the price level of primary commodities, I see for the economic world nothing but disaster."

Burns Money, Hurts Bomb, Ends His Life

Panzerfater, Italy, May 12 (AP)—The last gestures of Vincenzo Canato amazed his fellow-townsmen. After burning $1000 in bank notes, part of his savings while bartering in the black market, he tossed a bomb into the house of his estranged wife. Then he retired into his own domicile and set fire to it, perishing in the flames. His wife was unhurt.

EASY TO APPEAL BY RADIO FOR TAX PLAN

Disinclined with the attitude of Republican leaders on his amendment, tobacco and bottled goods tax proposals, Gov. Ely announced today that he will broadcast an appeal to the people on station WBZ Monday night.

In the same conference with newspapermen, the Governor announced himself as heartily in favor of a federal sales tax, but said he would not offer one for the state because he felt that it could not properly be administered.

Gov. Ely said he had received reports that Republican leaders would not allow the amendment tax to pass and finance his relief for cities and towns.

He then arranged for the speech from his special microphone in the State House at 10:30 Monday night. Asked if he might send in a substitute sales tax plan or suggest again that State salaries be reduced, Ely replied negatively on both.

"I don't think a sales tax is feasible or could be administered properly in Massachusetts," he said. "I am not opposed to the sales tax idea. I am heartily in favor of it. But it should be reserved for the federal government."

Business Men for Prohibition Repeal

Buffalo, May 12 (INS)—By a margin of 34 to 44 the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce has voted for repeal of prohibition. Results of the vote will be submitted to the United States Chamber of Commerce at its convention in San Francisco this month.

Mrs. Specter, 25, was the only witness to testify. She failed to produce a photograph of the man she said she married in 1919 and failed to identify him as the man Miss Borden married. The grand jury decided there was insufficient identification. Mrs. Specter and she left her husband in 1923 because he did not support her.

THOMAS MURPHY

Paul Leobe, president of the Reichstag, ordered arrest of the four. They fled to the Reichstag chamber for parliamentary immunity, but the federal council lifted this.

Then 20 policemen, with revolvers and night sticks, advanced to the Reichstag and escorted them to the platform.

Dr. Leobe had left the chamber after ordering the arrests and failed to reappear, causing indefinite adjournment of the Reichstag.

Prior to the disturbance, the Brüning government survived a no-confidence motion by a vote of 297 to 237.

Harold Williams and Thomas Murphy, arrested today when they drove the wrong way on a one-way street. Williams later was identified as a suspect long wanted in connection with holdups. Both are held. (Staff photos.)

2 ARRESTED IN REICHSTAG RIOT

Berlin, May 12 (INS)—An attack upon a former National Socialist deputy by four members of Adolf Hitler's party precipitated a riot in the Reichstag today.

Paul Leobe, president of the Reichstag, ordered arrest of the four. They fled to the Reichstag chamber for parliamentary immunity, but the federal council lifted this.

Then 20 policemen, with revolvers and night sticks, advanced to the Reichstag and escorted them to the platform.

POLITICAL THEME SONGS FOR ANY EVENTUALITY

FREE OF CHARGE

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

I HAVE DISCOVERED the Campaign Song for this year of grace, 1932. I offer it freely to whoever political party has sense enough to jump at it. I do this the more freely as it isn't my song and I have no lien or seizin upon it. It begins—

*She'll be coming round the mountain when she comes,
She'll be coming round the mountain when she comes,
She'll be coming round the mountain,
She'll be coming round the mountain when she comes.*

Very simple, you see, most appropriate to be sung by large bodies of simple-minded people who attend political rallies. The music is elementary, of a sort that lingers in the memory and can be whistled or hummed easily, even by people whose ear for music resembles that of the late General Grant. (You will remember that he said that he recognized only two tunes. One was Yankee Doodle and the other wasn't!) It's that kind of a tune. And when you have learned one line of the verse you have learned all. Really ideal for a generation whose memories have become completely atrophied from reading too much print.

Democrats Need It Most

*She'll be driving two white horses when she comes,
She'll be driving three white horses when she comes,
She'll be driving four white horses,
She'll be driving five white horses,
She'll be driving six white horses when she comes!*

The steady crescendo in the number of horses offers a readily utilized method of increasing enthusiasm in the singers, a foretaste of victory which must be irresistible.

But, you ask, who is coming round the mountain? Who is driving six white horses? Prosperity, of course! Or the Republican (Democratic) party. Or even the Prohibition party, if it comes to that obscure negation of statecraft.

*She'll be puffing and a-blowing when she comes,
She'll be puffing and a-blowing,
She'll be puffing and a-blowing when she comes!*

The metaphor got a little mixed here, like a horse-drawn locomotive or something of the sort, but the image is inspiring. I sort of wish the Democratic party would choose it, wrest it away, to speak from the Republicans. It looks as if the Democrats will need it. Six months ago I would have bet that nothing could stop the Democrats, but they are obviously in process of falling over their own feet, kicking themselves in the face, and going through all the time-honored tactics of the democratic party. They will be cutting their own throats in Chicago yet, unless the old Maestro is sadly mistaken. Meanwhile, Mr. Hoover has learned to use one of those Australian herders' whips they used to play round with in vaudeville. And the screams of the Jackson Rabbits are shrill.

*We'll kill the old red rooster when she comes,
We'll kill the old red rooster when she comes!*

Another for the Grand Old Party

Yes, obviously, this is the song for the Democrats. For Mr. Hoover and his crowd it won't do to stir up any slumbering memories about chickens in the pot and electric ice-boxes and two-car garages. Such allusions will not come gracefully. But as a shout of prophetic triumph from the Democrats, the restoration of Prosperity, the rooster is exactly the right symbol.

*And we'll have chicken dumplings when she comes,
And we'll have chicken dumplings,
And we'll have chicken dumplings when she comes!*

As for the Republicans, they might dig up the old song—
*In the winter, in the summer,
Ain't we got fun!*

*Times are down and getting bumper . . .
The rich get tazed and the poor get state-aid . . .*

Against that, listen to the triumphant rise and swell, as thousands of marching men with torches and old-olich capes (beg pardon, I was thinking of the Harrison-Cleveland campaign, no like that) plumpingly, and with the imminent arrival of sweet Prosperity, throne on the horse-drawn locomotive with Democracy at the throttle. Hear the chant rising to the triumphant climax about chicken and dumplings, then sobering down to the solemn, responsible, God-fearing conclusion:

*Oh, we'll take it slow and steady when she comes,
Oh, we'll take it slow and steady when she comes,
Oh, we'll take it slow and steady,
Oh, we'll take it slow and steady,*

No more bear raids on the market! No more stock speculation anyway! No more loans to Europe! No more Senators' grandmothers and feeble-minded relatives on the public payroll! Robustness, prudence, economy—and a chicken, at the most, in every other pot!

Hoover Should Become Radio Fan

Let me make the songs of a nation and I care not who writes the lyrics. Perhaps that is what Mr. Hoover was thinking of when he urged Mr. Rudy Vallee to compose a theme song to banish the Temporary Unpleasantness. Apparently, Mr. Hoover doesn't listen habitually to his radio, or he would have heard, and surely seized upon, this noble and inspiring epic of the coming Millennium, of the Apocalypse at hand—if you only vote right.

If that song hails from Kentucky or Tennessee, as it seems to, why, in the name of the Bluegrass or the Smoky mountains, isn't there a verse about old bourbon, or corn, or white mullets. Either party could write it in easily enough—and will probably have to.

*We'll be drinking boughen liquor when she comes . . .
Remember when they elected a President to the tune of "Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too!" And when Roosevelt campaigned for vice-president to "A Hot Time in the Old Town, Tonight!"*

The average campaign song is sickly, turgid, fat and unprofitable. What I've wanted is a folk song, that everybody can sing, that translates the deepest unfulfilled wishes of the people into a hymn that is prayer and prophecy in one.

This is it! I offer it freely to the party with the most horse sense.

After the Honeymoon, the Lancasters Leave Home
Town for Big City

Bill stepped down from the ladder and slipped an arm about Nivia's slim shoulders.

By FAITH BALDWIN.
Famous Authors of Many Novels of Love and Modern Society Life.

BILL LANCASTER drove a nail into the pastel-tinted wall of the new apartment, gave it an extra tap for good measure, hit his thumb, made a trenchant remark and sat down on the top of the kitchen step-ladder to nurse his wound and think things over.

Nivia, her slim throat and dark head emerging from the ruffles of a sublimated bungalow apron, giggled and then sneezed. She was dusting books. Packing cases yawned, gaped, on the living-room floor. Bill said, severely: "Nice sympathetic girl, you are!"

It was a Joseph Pennell's New York skyline, and had been given to them for a wedding gift some three months earlier.

Nivia, on tiptoe, presented him with the required wall decoration. She commented: "Isn't it lovely?" Every time I look at it I get a big kick. To think that we once thought it would be about all we'd ever see of New York, across four-thirty once a year when we felt that way.

"Oh-huh," responded Bill, abstractedly. He slipped the picture over the wall. He asked: "How's that?"

"A bit crooked. Straighten it, Bill. . . . It has a sort of list to it." She added: "I can't help thinking it's deplorable to drive nails into all from the outside."

"This is realer." Nivia stepped down from the ladder and, an arm slipped about Nivia's slim shoulders, surveyed his work.

"Home love nest," he remarked with deep satisfaction. "That's what your Aunt Carrie called it when she sent us the check to help with 'materials.'"

He released her and took two strides across the floor and a record to whirling electrically in the new photograph, the first that came to hand.

"Really, Nivia! It's the Maine Nivia Song and me too, recently rattled through the gates of dear old Yale."

He stopped the disc and, hunting, discovered a platters tune to which, once it was revving merrily, he waltzed Nivia about the bare floor.

"Dancing with tears in my eyes," sang Bill in a clear, happy tone, "I am—like him!"

The record ran to its close. Laughing, Nivia struggled to be free.

"Bill, let me go. Do you realize it's a 'celo'?" and that earnest coming in for the home-warming at nine."

"Yes, come. We can put some of them to work." He flung her an arm, on the wall, on the over-stuffed couch which Aunt Carrie's check had purchased. They sat there laughing wildly, for no good reason. Nivia laid her cheek against Bill's shoulder. She said:

"That's what comes of lending him me last dime."

DEATH TAKES MRS. HAGAN

G. L. Coulson Wins
Post in Wakefield

Mrs. Henry E. Hagan, wife of the former city controller, died in her home, 26 Victoria st., Dorchester today after a prolonged illness.

Mrs. Hagan was long identified with Catholic charitable societies and affiliated with various social and civic organizations. For many years she was a member of the Notre Dame Alumnae Association, executive board and the Federation of Catholic Clubs.

She is survived by her husband, who was a member of the council from 1912 to 1920, and four married daughters, Mrs. Joseph C. Croker, Mrs. George Clark and Mrs. Thomas Sullivan.

The funeral will take place Saturday morning with a requiem mass at 10 a. m. in St. William's Church.

Capt. Gay Is Named Naval Chief of Staff

Capt. Jesse B. Gay, executive officer at the navy yard since December, 1930, received orders from Washington today appointing him chief of staff to the commandant of the first naval district.

Capt. Gay is the son of the late naval operations department at Washington will come to Boston June 1 to be captain of the yard and executive officer. Capt. Gay succeeds Capt. Clarence A. Abbe who is soon to retire and who has been assigned to command the shipbuilding plant at the navy yard.

New Fire Rule Saves Somerville House

The value of a new Somerville fire department rule was proved today when smoke and flames drove men fleeing from the rooming house of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Bitterton on Walnut st.

Under the new rule, when a still or telephone alarm is received between 10 p. m. and daylight, a box alarm must be sent out, making it certain that there will be enough men and apparatus. The damage was kept below $700.

Receiver Awarded $6240

A federal jury today awarded $6240 to Arthur F. Rickford, receiver for the Atlantic Mutual Casualty Insurance Co., in his suit for $10,000 against the Commercial Casualty Insurance Co.

GRAY'S ESCAPE PAL PUNISHED

Vincent Zanolli, young Charles "L" Gray, who would have been a pal for parole this summer, was sentenced today in an anti-loitering law in Dorchester for his participation in the recent escape with William F. Blad.

Gray, 19, pleaded guilty in municipal court to escaping. For the 10 hours of stolen liberty he had with Gray he must serve a five-year sentence in jail, on July 1, 1933, and then go to Concord until such time as it shall be considered he has expiated his crime.

Gray was taken into custody at his home yesterday by Inspector Harry Green and William C. Smith of the Metropolitan police who investigated the accident.

At Rotary Meeting

With the Candid Camera

I went today to a grand time in the Hotel Statler, both nobbling with the best of Rotary folk. Guess you know by reading the Boston American yesterday that the annual conference of the 31st district—which means New England Rotary, was in session. Well, the photographer went to the big people present and, while they were not looking, put me into action.

At the speakers' table, we caught Frederic A. Shaffer of Chicago, Arizona, director of Rotary International.

I guess it was coffee, but it ought to have been tea, for you are looking at the Rev. William Thompson Elliott of Leeds, England. He was one of the speakers. The clergyman is president of the Rotary International.

Getting candid in the background, I snapped Leland D. Wood of Hudson, Mass., who is the very active gentleman known as Governor of the 31st district. He was making notes when I flashed on him.

Then to get right back into it, we photographed Roger Preston, president of the Rotary Club of Boston. Preston was chairman of the meeting. Did you know that Boston will entertain the International Rotary convention in 1933?

How Do Sportswomen Manage?

Cup winners—let's be out there! The woman in any field of sport must take her sporting chance with Nature. Any strenuous match may come at an unfortunate time of month. But there need be no pain! Midol always meets this emergency as all active women should know. It will block periodic pain for hours and hours. And Midol is a harmless aspirin that stops your headache. (It is non-narcotic.) If you want your next monthly period to begin and end without even a moment's discomfort, just ask for Midol at any drugstore. Tuck the little box in your purse and be ready.

BANK MAN ASKS DIVORCE FOR CRUELTY

Alleged Lack of Modesty on Her Part Shocked Him During Honeymoon, He Says

Donald Russell says his wife, Mrs. Russell, asked for a divorce from him because of her alleged lack of modesty during their honeymoon. He says she was "very vulgar" and "very disgusting" in her behavior.

The husband of the late Captain Russell, a former member of the United States Army, is now in the hands of a divorce court. He says that his wife, Mrs. Russell, was "very vulgar" and "very disgusting" in her behavior during their honeymoon.

OGDEN FAVORS TRUCKING CURB

Unregulated motor truck transportation in uncontrolled competition with the public service is the main reason for the proposed curbing of trucking, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The railroads are not asking that their competitors be regulated in the interests of the railroads, but rather that they be regulated in the interests of the public.

FAR EAST PROBLEMS TOLD TO CHAMBER

REX T. CRANDALL, EDW. J. FROST, COURTESAY CROCKER

The United States should be wary of granting independence to the Philippines, and Japan in a measure was justified in recent actions against China, but that America should be friendly to both nations, were expressed at a Boston Chamber of Commerce luncheon today by W. Cameron Forbes, former governor of the Philippines and later ambassador to Tokyo.

Frederick S. Snyder, president of the chamber, and Rex T. Crandall, assistant to the president of the Webster and Allen National Bank, E. J. Frost, vice-president of William Filene's Sons Co., and Courtesay Crocker, president of the Japan society of Boston, were among notables at the luncheon.

KINSMAN GIVEN THE SHAWNS IN PINEHURST 6-MONTHS TERM

George J. Shaw, of Lynn, former president of the Eastern States Ice and Cold Storage Co., was sentenced to a term of six months in the State Prison for the crime of larceny.

Shaw was also fined $405 on auto charges. He was arrested on May 10 at Lynn, Mass., where he was found in possession of a stolen automobile.

FORBES WARNS OF FREEING FILIPINOS

Boston Chamber Is Told That U. S. Should Be Friendly to Both Japan and China

The United States should "watch its step" against Philippine independence and should remain friendly with both China and Japan, W. Cameron Forbes, former Governor of the Philippines and later Ambassador to Japan, told Chamber of Commerce members at a luncheon today.

Granting of independence to the Philippines would react upon their people's present freedom of opportunity, of movement, of speech, of worship and of employment.

"Perhaps the greatest factor in making a prosperous people of the Filipinos," he said, "has been the fact that we have opened our markets to the Filipinos and given them a substantial free trade between their country and ours."

"The growth under these institutions has been phenomenal and now reaches the goodly sum of $100,000,000 a year in reciprocal trade between the Philippine Islands and the United States."

"We have more than 100,000 free markets for our commodities, and business in general is not so encouraging that it seems the part of wisdom to shut off such promising markets as we are fortunate enough to have."

"These proposed legislative measures are being actively supported by certain interests in the United States, but for the benefit of the Philippines, but for the benefit of their own enterprises."

It was the failure on the part of the United States government to give adequate protection to the lives and property of the Japanese citizens, which caused the recent Japanese activities in Manchuria.

Victory Over Dundee Won Indrisano Fame

This is the fourth of a series of articles in which Jack Conway tells of the rise and fall of Johnny Indrisano.

By JACK CONWAY

Jackie Williams sent Johnny Indrisano to a training camp in New Jersey to prepare for his bout with Joe Dundee of Baltimore, world's welterweight champion, at Braves Field in September, 1927.

Daddy Mullins, pilot of Harry Wills, had a small interest in the Indrisano management at the time and he gave his advice during the weeks the East Boston boy spent in getting ready for the champion Dundee and Indrisano weighed in at 145 pounds. Interest in the Jack Dempsey-Tommy Burns battle at Chicago caused the fans to hear of the Indrisano-Dundee fight.

The Indrisano-Dundee fight took place in the Garden City Hotel in New York. Dundee was the favorite to win. He was a very much better fighter than Indrisano. The fight was a very close one. Dundee won by a narrow margin. The fight was a very close one. Dundee won by a narrow margin.

BARTUSH RISKS BROWNING'S SCISSORS

Magic Coin Falls for Jim Browning to Pin Bartush

JACK CONWAY today faced his famous magic coin. He flipped it to the air. It fell to the ground. It was heads. Bartush won the match.

Indrisano Gave Brilliant Exhibition

Indrisano then went in and gave one of the most brilliant exhibitions of clever boxing ever witnessed in this city. His marvelous left-hand punches, when at close quarters, enabled him to pile up many points.

Dundee tried hard to drop Indrisano with right hand wallop, but Johnny was too clever for him. He slipped, dodged, or put in one of the swinging blows, or got in with his left hand punches. He was a very much better fighter than Indrisano. The fight was a very close one. Dundee won by a narrow margin.

Indrisano Refused to Become Discouraged

Indrisano refused to become discouraged. He declared that the best winning he could eventually reach was to win the money.

New York had heard of Indrisano. He was a very much better fighter than Indrisano. The fight was a very close one. Dundee won by a narrow margin.

RESERVE PLANS

New York, May 12.—Railroad shares sold off in trading today on news from the New York Stock Exchange today.

The former tendency of recent sessions disappeared as several of the railroads showed a new ground.

The market moved more into open dividend cuts than upon remedial measures such as efforts toward international credit expansion as indicated in the Bank of England's rate reduction.

The market, after turning somewhat reactionary, particularly in the railroads, ended somewhat higher than it had started.

Union Pacific, after dropping 4 points, recovered 1, and fractional recovery from the lowest was 10 points, but the late tone was heavy.

Turnover was under a million shares, with a point in the included L. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Sears, National Biscuit, Standard Oil and others.

Some of the preferred shares were again sold, notably those of Johns-Manville, Case and Adams Express.

Union Pacific's reduction of its interest dividend from 3.50 to 3.25 was less drastic than expected in some quarters.

Country Demands That Congress Promptly Pass Prosperity Bond Issue

AT LAST the responsible leadership of the country, in and out of public office, is becoming aroused to the need of prompt action by Congress toward relieving unemployment.

Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the United States Senate, again brings the necessity for accelerating public works before the attention of the country in urging a $2,000,000,000 Federal bond issue.

His advocacy of the principle is part of a nationwide movement demanding CONSTRUCTIVE, PROMPT and COURAGEOUS ACTION by the Federal Government.

More and more business executives are coming to recognize the necessity for a Prosperity Loan, which has long been advocated by scientific economists.

BERNARD M. BARUCH, former chairman of the War Industries Board, in commenting on the proposal for a Federal bond issue to finance job-creating public construction, declared: "If accompanied by a balanced budget and a simultaneous tax to take care of interest and amortization, it is necessary, sound, and will be effective."

In the light of such expert testimony, how long is Congress going to delay, when the country needs, most of all, SPEEDY ACTION?

There can be no effective substitute, in a program of economic rehabilitation, for a plan to re-employ idle workers.

Congress should forthwith check the current adverse economic trend by authorizing a substantial program of useful spending on needed public projects.

The time is ripe for DOING, not for further tedious TALKING.

The Gadget Exposition

Some eighty years ago the head clerk at the Patent Office resigned because, he said, there was nothing left to invent.

One look inside the Great Central Palace, in New York, where the Fourth International Patent Exposition is staged, must convince anyone that inventing is a deep instinct and will last as long as the human race. And now that it has more time on its hands it is inventing more than ever.

Among the interesting exhibits are things we wonder how we ever did without. A Brooklyn girl has invented a non-skid soap for bathtubs. A machine to clamp roost chickens so tyros may carve them is another laudable gadget.

An inspired cowboy offers a reversible hat for women. A Pullman porter, weary of cramped space, designed a helicopter to give man the freedom of the skies. He is from Brooklyn. A bachelor uncle, who has to look after infant nephews while his parents are at a movie, has invented a pinless diaper. He is from Brooklyn, too.

Literary Mystery

When Premier Mussolini addressed the mob of students from the balcony of Venezia Palace, a few days ago, they hearkened to him with rapture. But when he waved a book and a market they broke into delicious alarm.

"These are our outwards in the tenth year of the Fascist revolution," cried the Duce.

Whereupon the clamor and enthusiasm redoubled.

We can understand the enthusiasm, but what was the book?

Was it a published version of the Duce's play about Napoleon, which, it is learned, has been doing so well in London as was expected? Or was it the Duce's latest romance, "The Cardinal's Mistress"? Or was it just a "prop," or an antique book hollowed out to hold cigarettes?

This is the one mystery book of the month that probably won't be solved.

A Simple Tax Program

When you see the terrible mass Congress has gotten itself into, the program is simple here and there for something to tax.

It is reminiscent of Sydney Smith's diatribe against unscientific taxation, written 112 years ago:

"The schoolboy whips his taxed top; the headless youth mangles his taxed hair; with a taxed bottle on a taxed road, and the dying Englishman, paying his medicine, which has paid seven per cent, into a spoon that has paid fifteen per cent, flings himself into a sea, and dies, and his estate has paid two per cent, and expires in the arms of an undertaker who has paid a license of a hundred pounds for the privilege of putting him to death."

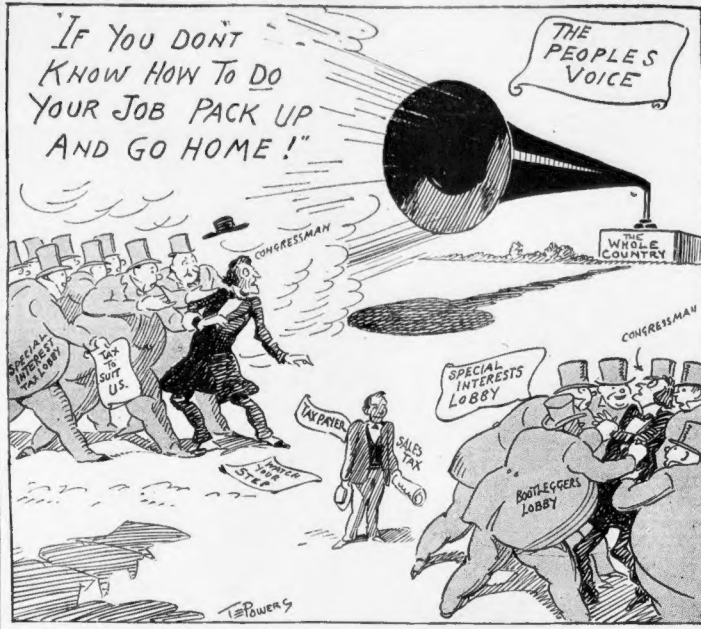

The more complicated taxation becomes, the more unscientific and unjust it becomes. A simple sales tax is the solution.

Judge Frank Donahue

Frank J. Donahue has been identified in the public mind the past few years as the chairman of the Democratic State committee. There may have been forgotten that he had been secretary of the Commonwealth and that he had been chairman of the Industrial Accident Commission of Massachusetts. Many of the laws of this Commonwealth, notably those which provide compensation for our workers injured or maimed in industrial accidents, are the product of his public service. He has had the training which should make him an efficient judge of the superior court.

Hearing From Home

McIntyre New York Day by Day

Ferry Hubub

NEW YORK, May 12.—Hubub around the ferries during the morning and evening rush is a cross-section of metropolitan life churned to a furious froth. Each boat in the morning brings a staggering load, pressing at sluice gates, to be immediately swallowed by the city.

At evening the boats bite off their chunks, in the manner of the steam shovels, and carry them off to Jersey and Staten Island shores. There are the so-called "respectable middle class"—the sort who buy homes with gardens, and without whom, a great statement paragonized, "no nation can endure."

Seventy per cent are potential home owners. Ambitious as they are, they meet at the ferry with their parents or their children, and the evenings they remain in town to shop, see the movies or play. It is but after a series of misadventures, a great statement paragonized, "no nation can endure."

Eclectic male attire is reminded of beleaguered Jim Brady, near the shadows, requested a white and for which Diamond Jim signed no regrets. He was sucked in the creed of all class spenders: "It's fun being a sucker if you can afford it."

A magazine "He was a wispy, watery soul with a day's growth and incredibly greasy clothes and soiled linen whose amiability made him welcome."

Recalling George Ade's old one-wooly but not overly wacky. (Copyright, 1932, by the Boston Evening Herald.)

In his bachelor days, the Wall Street public utility magnate, Henry L. Doherty, used to get away from metropolitan distractions in deck walking on the ferries after the home-going rush.

Undoubtedly by a recent calamity, Earl Carroll it to make his production, the "Fountain of Youth," has rented the "Fountain of Youth" for long term of years and so forth.

Listen, World!

Live Without Bodies? WHERE do we go when we die? What happens when we lose our bodies?

Do we go anywhere? Does anything happen? Or do we just stop? Is death the end? Or do we go on living without our bodies, just as well, perhaps, as better, than when we had them?

Spooky questions? Not at all. Simple and as-s-e-kable questions. It's quite as natural to think about life after death as it is to think of life in New York or Timbuktu.

Now consider yourself. You are a certain person with an individual personality, called Bill Jones or Bessie Brown.

What does that really mean? That means that you are a certain arrangement of energy inhabiting a certain body.

The energy in you is very valuable; probably much more valuable than the money in a rumble of a toad. At least, you and I think so.

It has taken a long time for life to develop into the particular form of energy which makes men think and feel, love and hate, desire and fear. It has taken life a long time to make itself into you. Bill Jones, or you, Bessie Brown.

And now, having taken millions of years in the making, are you suddenly going to stop? Will all that rare accumulation cease when the body which holds it breaks?

Or will you be able to go without a body? Other forms of energy exist without a body? Light and electricity and magnetism exist without bodies.

Will that most precious and most powerful form of energy—the human mind—be lost for lack of a body, while a thinking jay song goes on? Think about that. Every time you see an electric light, or turn on a radio dial, think about the light in your song in you, the light and the song in those you have loved and are loved.

Are they really lost? DO THEY LIVE ON WITHOUT THEIR BODIES IN A FREER, WIDER EXISTENCE? (Copyright, 1932, by Elsie Robinson.)

Helplessness He seemed so solemn and when he came in to tell his grief to me, and it was on his lips to say that I had heard that very day.

A dozen tales of hurt and loss From others whom I chanced to know. But something stopped me, and I stood And let him talk as best he could.

He was a man I'd never seen. To me his care could mean. I could have sent him off unheard With but a crisp and cruel word.

Then henceforth he would live as one Whom I had turned my back upon. And thinking thus, I heard him through, Though there was little I could do.

The thing that hurts in Trouble's clutch Is not that one must suffer. For other's worried and distressed, But that full friendship, at its best, So very little can bestow.

To ease another's weight of woe, And that so often comes the call From those it cannot help at all. (Copyright, 1932, Elsie Robinson.)

Futility of Political Murder Illustrated

By Claude G. Bowers

THE ENTIRE WORLD mourns the death of Paul Doumer, President of France. It is easy for an American to sympathize with his career. He came from the bottom. He worked to support a mother when a child, and lived in poverty. He educated himself at night school. He never forgot the side of the barricade on which he was born. He remained, throughout, the kindly, simple gentleman nature had made him. It is unthinkable that he should have had an enemy in the world. And yet he was murdered.

Nothing illustrates better the futility and the usual aimlessness of political assassinations. This murder was aimed, not at Paul Doumer, but at the Presidency of France; and the Presidency of France is not injured by the Government going on as usual.

The attempt to ascribe the murder to the Russian Communists, inspired no doubt by a rather detestable attempt to influence the elections Sunday, was absurd on its face. The murder was on the other side. He belonged to the friends of the Romanoffs. But he was apparently innocent, though the medical men find otherwise.

The realists of Moscow are not wasting powder for nothing—and the murder of a kindly old man like Doumer does nothing to advance their cause. His report on the eve of the elections Sunday that the assassin was an agent of Moscow smacks of the side of the barricade on which he was born. He canard put out by "respectable people" to defeat the MacDonald Ministry when the first was overthrown at the polls.

Doumer to Be Buried in the Pantheon It was the wish of the French nation to pay him the signal honor of burial in the Pantheon. This exquisite building has seen a few of the great men of France come and go.

Mirabeau was buried there in an imposing demonstration, and then his sacred remains, when the King were discovered and he was thrown out by the Revolution.

Marat rested there a while—and was thrown out. The few there now include the immortals of France—not many of them statesmen.

There rests Voltaire—and Rousseau—and Victor Hugo—and Zola—all interested in public policy, but none of them statues. All of them at times were the subjects of bitter controversy. Three were driven from their country at one time or another in Switzerland and Rousseau lived in exile.

Voltaire was living in his country at one time or another in Switzerland and Rousseau lived in exile. Voltaire was living in his country at one time or another in Switzerland and Rousseau lived in exile.
